ABSTRACT

Ask any college student where they keep their notes, and you will likely get a different answer every time – a WhatsApp group here, a friend's phone gallery screenshot there, or a stack of photocopies. Important study material gets scattered, and valuable time that should go into actual learning ends up lost searching for notes. AI_Book – Digital Notes Sharing System solves this everyday problem.

At its core, administrators and faculty upload verified lecture notes and PYQs as PDFs organized by subject, semester, and unit module. Students can instantly search, view in a multi-page reader, and download verified handouts. What makes AI_Book unique is the Google Gemini AI layer: dense notes are automatically summarized into revision flashcards, students can ask academic doubts in an AI chat assistant grounded in syllabus content, and topic-wise self-assessment quizzes are generated automatically.
